EXCELLENCE IN ACTION

Dear Parents and students

As we bring another enriching academic year to a close, I find myself reflecting on the extraordinary spirit of our school community. This session has been defined by more than just academic milestones; it has been a journey of collective perseverance and profound growth. “Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; working together is success.” — Henry Ford From the creative energy in the bulletin board presentations, vibrancy in the celebration of festivals, the kaleidoscope of Annual Day to the intellectual rigour of our debates/declamations, interactive sessions of our students in the classrooms and play ground, teamwork on the sports ground etc have consistently modeled the values that define us. These moments do more than build skills—they shape the confident, compassionate leaders of tomorrow. As we look towards the horizon, we remain steadfast in our mission to provide an inclusive, dynamic environment where every learner is empowered to shine. Let us carry this momentum into the new academic year , inspired by our shared achievements and driven by a passion for excellence. With heartfelt gratitude to our dedicated staff, supportive parents, and ever-enthusiastic students, we extend our best wishes to each one of you. May we continue to learn, grow, and excel— together.

Warm Regards

Mrs. Bharati Kwatra

Reading: The Foundation of Language

Reading is an important part of English. It not only increases exposure to language but also engages learner's imagination with exciting memorable characters and interesting illustrations. Encouraging learners to develop a reading habit can help them to build vocabulary and develop effective reading strategies. A reading habit also stimulates creativity and improves comprehension skills. Wide range of reading ensures that different learner preferences (fiction, scientific stories, biographies, adventure, science fiction, horror, fantasies, short stories etc.) offer a fantastic opportunity to introduce learners to this wonderland world of literature. The vocabulary and grammatical structures used are specifically selected to correspond to the learners CEFR (Common European Framework of References for Languages) level . Through continuous engagement with reading, learners will develop their language skills, become conscious and independent readers and develop an appetite for life-long learning.
